

It's all aflutter at MAC. We heart the new Quite Cute Mineralise Blush, £18, above, with its pearly core. And the Plushglass lippglosses, £16, right, are just as lovely – pick from Girl ♥ Boy or I ♥ U.

Ashley Hicks chose his father's classic Hicksonian emblem, the four Hs joined together, to create deeply pretty packaging for Jo Malone's romantic Red Roses candle, £38, above. For something old and something borrowed all wrapped up in one, slip on Florence B's Hopelessly Devoted necklace, £320, below, complete with antique Victorian gold charms.

Beauty news

This month:
love is in the air

Traditional brides take note. Grossmith's Betrothal, £375, left – originally created for George V's Queen Mary to celebrate the royal wedding – has been revived this year, with notes of orange blossom and rose de mai, which flowers only in May. Starry-eyed lovers will swoon at Lanvin's Marry Me, £61, below. The satin ribbon-topped perfume is fresh as a daisy, with dashes of jasmine tea, peach and magnolia.

Pop Jurlique's Love Balm, £10, left, in your bridesmaids' pockets. This super-salve is packed with the most delicious ingredients – daisy, sweet violet, rose gallica, camomile and even marshmallow – to keep chapped lips at bay. And give nails a hint of shimmery pink with OPI's iced-cupcake colours, like Altar Ego, left, £10.50.

The lowdown: here comes the bride – how to say 'I do' in style

For an all-day big-day pout, pucker up to Dolce & Gabbana's Shine lipsticks in cherry-hued Love and lilac-y Romance, £22, right, from the Secret Garden collection.